FEARS NACHAWATI

— L A W F I R M —

Firm Background

Fears | Nachawati Law Firm ("Firm") was founded in 2006 and currently has more than 40 attorneys and over 70 support staff. With approximately 15 years' experience handling complex litigation, the firm concentrates its resources on class actions, public client representation, pharmaceutical and medical device injury litigation, water and environmental contamination, and consumer fraud litigation, and has held leadership positions in class actions, public client, water contamination, and mass tort litigation.

The Firm knows complex litigation and has the financial and human resources necessary to see litigation to conclusion. We have attorneys experienced and dedicated to prelitigation strategy, litigation, discovery, briefing and appellate issues, government regulation, settlement negotiations, and trial in state and federal court. Fears Nachawati is in the position to provide turnkey representation on the most complex litigation. The Firm has the financial resources to retain the nation's leading expert witnesses and to see this litigation through as long as it takes, including through years of trials and appeals, if necessary. We have access to and can finance the retention of the nation's best experts. We have access to state-of-the-art document management systems and a deep bench of trial and appellate attorneys for each phase of the litigation.

Fears Nachawati, PLLC has a notable history of representing class members. Fears Nachawati filed one of the first class actions in the nation against Apple for privacy violations arising from tracking of consumers on their iPhones. Freeman, et al. v. Apple, Inc., Case No. 5:2010-cv-05881 (N.D. Cal). Fears Nachawati was also the first in the nation to file a class action against Midstream Media for privacy violations arising from an invasive computer tracking technology known as "history sniffing." Pitner, et al. v. Midstream Media International NV, Case No. 8:10-cv-01850 (C.D. Cal). Both of these cases were resolved through settlement.

Fears Nachawati has also handled class actions outside the privacy cases. Fears Nachawati filed a consumer class action cases filed against L'Oréal arising from L'Oréal's failure to warn consumers about the flammability of a particular hair care product. The class was certified. Guido, et al. v. L'Oréal USA, Inc., Case No. 2:11-cv-01067 (C.D. Cal.). The firm also filed a class action against Dreyer's for false advertising. The class was certified, and the firm was appointed Interim Class Counsel. Pamela Rutledge-Muhs and Jay Woolwine, et al. v. Dreyer's Grand Ice Cream, Inc., Case No. 3:11-cv-03164 (N.D. Cal).

The firm represented NCAA and NFL players, approximately 200 claimants and 250 claimants respectively, in a medical monitoring class actions against the NFL and NCAA. In re Nat'l Collegiate Athletic Ass'n Student-Athlete Concussion Litig., Case No. 1:13-cv-09116 (N.D. Ill.); see also In re Nat'l Football League Players' Concussion Injury Litig., MDL No. 2323 (E.D.

Gale D. Pearson, Fears Nachawati Senior Counsel was appointed lead counsel in a consumer fraud class action against several large tobacco companies for product defects. Curtis, et al. v. Altria Group, Inc. (FKA Phillip Morris) et. al., No 27-CV-01-18042 (4th Jud. Dist. Ct., Minn.).

Outside the dedicated Class Action Practice, Fears | Nachawati has a history of taking on major causes and working hard to improve the lives of those harmed by wrongdoing. Fears | Nachawati has been involved in complex civil pharmaceutical and medical device litigation. The firm has successfully settled cases for clients which has resulted in multimillion-dollar recoveries for the clients. Fears Nachawati has nearly 16 years of experience in complex pharmaceutical, medical device, and consumer fraud litigation against pharmaceutical and medical device manufacturers and fortune 500 companies and currently represents over 35,000 individuals in cases against pharmaceutical and medical device manufacturers. Fears Nachawati is in national leadership positions on consolidated cases involving medical device and pharmaceuticals including the Plaintiff's Executive Committee in In re Cook IVC Filters Products Litigation, MDL 2570, the Plaintiff's Steering Committee in In re Bard IVC Filters Products Litigation, MDL 2641, the Plaintiff's Steering Committee in In re Cordis IVC Filters Products Litigation in California and the Plaintiff's Steering Committee in In re Bard Hernia Mesh Litigation in Rhode Island. The Firm serves on the trial, discovery, expert and law committees on the consolidated actions listed above.

The Firm also has a vibrant Public Client Practice, which includes the representation of Attorneys General and state subdivisions in litigation involving the national opioid litigation, water and environmental contamination, and fraud litigation in administrative proceedings and state and federal court, including multidistrict litigation and consolidated state court proceedings. The Firm also serves on the Executive Committee for the Texas Opioid MDL.

Recently, Fears | Nachawati trial team successfully tried to verdict a case against the perpetrators of a murder for hire scheme involving millions of dollars in life insurance. The firm obtained a verdict in the amount of approximately $166 million.

Fears Nachawati has been directly involved in a number of the country's largest litigations involving consumer protection.

Fears Nachawati represents the State of Utah and nearly 100 counties, cities, and hospitals in opioid litigation. The Firm has worked closely and productively with the AGO through the accelerated administrative process.

Partner Ann Saucer represented the State of Mississippi in consumer protection litigation against a manufacturer of a deceptively marketed medical devices resulting in a $15.7 million settlement. She also represented the States of Mississippi and Hawaii involving the overcharging of fees on credit cards. The cases settled against two of the defendants for $13.5 million.

Matthew McCarley led a trial team that won a $166 million verdict in an insurance fraud case in 2018.

The Firm is currently representing the State of New Mexico in a consumer action against a pharmaceutical company for the false advertising and sale of a dangerous product.

The Firm's experience allows us to hit the ground running for any client's new case, to conduct the appropriate investigations, and to see any resulting lawsuits through years of litigation, trials, and appeals. We are confident in our experience, and in our ability to work with any public entity, its attorneys, elected officials, and other staff to investigate the potential claims, identify the potential defendants, draft any appropriate lawsuits, and assist each client to litigate those suits to conclusion.

"By taking part in this litigation, communities are taking their fate into their own hands with the assistance of attorneys nationwide. The ultimate result...will hopefully be a forward-looking pool of resources aimed at letting communities determine how to regain control of their own futures and bring themselves back from the brink."

— Jonathan Novak, Maryland Bar Journal, Spring 2019

Our record of success has uniquely positioned us for partnerships with various public entities and officials. We execute litigation alongside Attorneys General, assistant attorneys general, the coordinating county and city attorneys, and other key government agency officials, to investigate and resolve claims of harm to the community.

CONSUMER PROTECTION

“As trial lawyers actively partnering with local governments ravaged by the reckless distribution of highly addictive opioids, we take exception to the unsupported claim that today’s addiction problem is primarily the result of illegal fentanyl and meth.”

— Bryan Fears and Jonathan Novak, Wall Street Journal, “The Tragic Opioid Crisis Has Many Fathers,” September 2019

ILLUSTRATIVE REPRESENTATIONS

- Represent the State of Utah in the Opioid Litigation.
- Represent approximately 100 cities and counties in the Opioid Litigation.
- Trial involving insurance fraud case resulting in a $166 million verdict.
- Successfully represented the State of Mississippi in consumer litigation resulting in a $15.7 million settlement.
- Successfully represented the State of Mississippi in consumer litigation against a national bank resulting in a $13.5 million-dollar settlement.
- Action against pharmaceutical distribution company for violation of the Controlled Substances Act resulting in a $80 million settlement.
- Represent the State of New Mexico in consumer litigation against the manufacturers of talcum powder.

“We told the jury if they get away with this, the Traveler community is really tight and word is going to get out that this worked and other people are going to try this,” McCarley said. “I think that was part of their motivation in delivering a large verdict. They wanted to send a message...that this type of scheme will not be tolerated.”

Matthew represents clients injured by corporate wrongdoing, with an emphasis on public client litigation and pharmaceutical and medical device litigation. His current practice includes representing government entities in litigation targeting the alleged deceptive marketing and overprescribing of highly addictive opioid painkillers, as well as school districts and universities in litigation against artificial turf manufactures for fraud and violations of the deceptive trade practices act.

Matthew also represents individuals injured by pharmaceutical and medical devices. Matthew currently serves on the Plaintiff's Executive Committee for In re Cook IVC Filters Products Litigation, MDL 2570, the Plaintiff's Steering Committee in In re Bard IVC Filters Products Litigation, MDL 2641, the Plaintiff's Steering Committee in In re Cordis IVC Filters Products Litigation in California and the Plaintiff's Steering Committee in In re Bard Hernia Mesh Litigation in Rhode Island. Matthew enjoys pursuing justice for his clients. His previous experience includes work as an in-house attorney for a large corporation. While working as an in-house attorney Matthew gained valuable insight on how corporations deal with claims from individuals. He uses this knowledge to help individuals who, through no fault of their own, have been wrongfully injured or terminated.

Recently, Matthew tried to verdict a case against the perpetrators of a murder for hire scheme involving millions of dollars in life insurance. Matthew obtained a verdict in the amount of approximately $166 million. Fox v. Mark and Virginia Buckland, Cause No. 141-277896-15 (141st Dist. Court Tarrant County, Texas).

Matthew attended Texas A&M University where he received his Bachelor's degree in International Studies. After college, Matthew earned his Juris Doctor from South Texas College of Law in Houston, Texas. Matthew served a two-year mission for his church and is fluent in Spanish. He enjoys traveling and spending time with his family. Matthew also enjoys providing volunteer service in the community and in his church.

Twice won reversal at the Texas Supreme Court in case involving sexual assault by a former supervisor. In its first appeal, the case established that when a plaintiff alleges sexual assault, rather than sexual harassment, the Texas Commission on Human Rights Act does not preempt the plaintiff's common law assault claim. B.C. v. Steak 'N Shake Operations, Inc., 512 S.W.3d 276 (Tex. 2017). In the second appeal to the supreme court, it held that "the trial court's recital that it considered the 'evidence and arguments of counsel,' without any limitation, is an 'affirmative indication' that the trial court considered" any late-filed evidence. B.C. v. Steak 'N Shake Operations, Inc., 598 S.W.3d 256, 261 (Tex. 2020).

Majed Nachawati is a co-founding partner of Fears | Nachawati Law Firm. He is heavily involved in the law firm's public client representation and mass tort practice. Majed serves on the Plaintiff's Steering Committee in In re Texas Opioid Litigation, No. 18-0358. Majed leads the firm in representing the State of Utah in opioid litigation, as well as more than 50 counties, cities, and hospital districts in Texas, North Dakota, New Mexico, Kentucky, Maryland, Florida, and Mississippi.

Majed has led the firm developing a strong mass tort and class action practice. The firm holds leadership positions in the Bard Hernia Mesh MDL, the Bard IVC Filter MDL, the Cook IVC Filter MDL, and the Cordis IVC Filter MDL. The law firm filed one of the first class actions against Dreyers Ice Cream for false advertising and was appointed Interim Class Counsel. In addition, the law firm filed the first class action in the nation against Midstream Media for privacy violations arising from an invasive computer tracking technology known as "history sniffing," one of the first class actions against Apple for privacy violations arising from tracking of consumers on their iPhones, and one of the first known consumer class actions against L'Oréal arising from the company's failure to warn consumers about the flammability of a particular hair care product.

Last year, under Majed's leadership, the firm provided onsite trial briefing support for a three-week Cook IVC filter trial and was part of the team that received a $3 million design defect verdict—the first in the country against an IVC filter manufacturer. And last year, the firm tried a case against the perpetrators of a murder for hire scheme involving millions of dollars in life insurance and obtained a verdict of approximately $166 million.

The son of a first-generation Middle Eastern immigrant father and a Hispanic mother, Majed did not grow up in a life of privilege. He discovered the law as a way to make a difference in his own life and in the lives of his clients. He began his legal career as a two-year judicial law clerk with the Thirteenth Court of Appeals of Texas. Majed works tirelessly to build the relationships and do the work that will create change. He sees practicing law as a calling—not just a career.

Majed serves on the State Bar of Texas Committee on Professionalism and is the District Chairman for the Grievance Committee for the State Bar of Texas, District 6, for which he has been an appointed member for the past five years. He serves as a Committee Member for The Dallas Bar Association's Legal Ethics Committee and Lawyer Referral Service Committee. Majed also serves as member of the Board of Directors of Public Justice and the Board of Directors for the Texas Trial Lawyers Association. He is an appointed member of The William "Mac" Taylor American Inn of Court. He is a former member of the State Bar of Texas Committee for Diversity in the Profession.

Majed also serves as a mentor to law students at the University of North Texas School of Law. He has sponsored the Junior League of Dallas, the Attorneys Helping the Community 5K, Feed My Starving Children, the Texas Crime Victims Compensation Fund, and the Lone Star Race Benefiting Children with Disabilities. Through the law firm, he has also participated in relief efforts to address natural disasters, including Humanitarian Relief for Families Affected by Hurricane Harvey, and volunteered with DFW Detained.

When he can get away from the law, he spends his time with his wife Alma and their two young children.

Over her 25-year legal career, Gale Pearson has served in leadership roles in many private and multi-district mass tort litigations. On April 26, 2019, she was appointed to the Plaintiff's Steering Committee for the National Environmental Water Contamination Case involving PFAS contamination: In Re: Aqueous Film-Fforming Foams Products Liability Litigation, No. 18-2873. Her experience litigating PFAS water contamination cases began almost 15 years ago when Gale and a team of attorneys filed suit in state court against 3M at its corporate headquarters in Washington County, Minnesota, for environmental water contamination damages caused by its manufacturing and disposal practices of Perfluoroochemicals (PFAS). The case resulted in a six-week trial, where the court found evidence that 3M acted with reckless disregard to the rights and safety of others. Shortly after that trial, the Minnesota Attorney General's office filed suit against 3M for "Damages to Minnesota's Natural Resources" based on documents discovered by Ms. Pearson's team. That case resulted in a $850 million settlement against 3M.

She also practices in the area of qui tam litigation, including serving as co-lead trial counsel against a nursing home owner alleging the nursing home provided worthless services to its residents. Ms. Pearson and her team took this "first of its kind" qui tam case to trial, obtaining a multi-million-dollar verdict against the owner of a Nursing Home in favor of her clients and the U.S. government. For this accomplishment, she was nominated as a finalist for Public Justice's Trial Lawyer of the Year and a named Top 100 Trial Lawyer.

In 2003, Supreme Court Justice Stephen Breyer presented her the Outstanding Pro Bono Service Award for her work with the September 11th Victim Compensation Fund.

Ms. Pearson's skills go far beyond her legal degree, including undergraduate work in Laboratory Medicine, Physics and Chemistry working as a Board-Certified Clinical Laboratory Scientist prior to law school. She is also a Certified Real Property Appraiser. Ms. Pearson is a frequent lecturer on complex litigation, water contamination and scientific legal topics.

Ann Saucer is a litigator with extensive experience in complex and multidistrict litigation, consumer protection, class actions, pharmaceutical litigation, and environmental and toxic torts.

Ann's practice focuses on appellate advocacy and briefing in complex litigation. A licensed attorney for over twenty-five years, Ann has won arguments before the United States Fifth Circuit Court of Appeals, the United States Ninth Circuit Court of Appeals, the Mississippi Supreme Court sitting En Banc, the Texas Court of Appeals, Dallas, and state and federal trial courts across the country.

Ann's federal MDL experience includes serving as a Co-Chair of the Plaintiffs' Briefing Committee in the In re National Prescription Opiate Litigation, MDL No. 2804 (N.D. Ohio), in 2018. Her opioid litigation experience precedes the formation of the MDL, and she was a key author of the 2017 petition to the Judicial Panel on Multidistrict Litigation requesting creation of the National Prescription Opiate Litigation MDL. Ms. Saucer also is working with leadership in the Texas opioid multidistrict litigation and recently spearheaded omnibus briefing in opposition to defendants' motion to dismiss. Ann was a key author of the federal court briefing defending the rights of Fen Phen victims when the American Home Products Corporation class action settlement was renegotiated. She was a keynote speaker at Fen Phen litigation seminars. She was an author of oppositions to motions to dismiss in City of Greenville, Ill. v. Syngenta Crop Protection, Inc., a case in which community water systems from six different states brought suit for atrazine contamination of their water supplies. Ann has also spoken and published several articles on civil procedure.

Ann graduated first in her class from Loyola University School of Law, New Orleans, in 1991. After graduation Ann clerked for the Honorable Henry A. Darren McDowell is a trial lawyer with extensive experience in complex and multidistrict litigation, consumer protection, class actions, pharmaceutical litigation, and environmental and toxic torts.

A licensed attorney for over twenty years, Darren has managed all phases of cases including but not limited to drafting pleadings, discovery and motions, taking and defending depositions, conducting hearings and trying cases as a first and second chair trial attorney. Darren has handled various high stakes litigation in both state and federal trial courts across the country.

As an accomplished Trial Attorney, Darren has tried a variety of cases to verdict including co-chairing Lloyd S. Garvin, et al. v. AGCO Corporation a/k/a Allis Chalmers Company et al., which resulted in a verdict against various equipment manufacturers for an individual suffering from testicular mesothelioma. The verdict was a first of its kind and was noted as one of the highest verdicts in South Carolina for 2013. Additional sample cases include Vicki Lynn Rogers v. Goodyear Tire and Rubber and Shirley Dickson v. Bell Helicopter. Both were employer gross negligence cases which resulted in sizable verdicts for the plaintiffs.

Darren is an invited member of the American Academy of Trial Attorneys, The National Trial Lawyers top 100, and was voted by his peers to the Texas Super Lawyers Rising Stars listing from 2006-2009. Additionally, Darren is a member of the American Association for Justice, the Texas Trial Lawyers Association and the Dallas Trial Lawyers Association.

Darren has also served on the Board of Cafe Momentum, a non-profit restaurant providing jobs and life skills for at risk youth ranging in age from fourteen to eighteen.

Amy works directly with Bryan Fears and Majed Nachawati on public client strategy and litigation management. Her perspective and practical leadership are an asset to the law firm.

She also oversees firm attorneys and staff handling intake, case evaluation, and filing for all the law firm's mass tort practice, which represents approximately 50,000 clients. She joined the firm from a plaintiffs' practice where she also managed staff handling prelitigation for a variety of workplace exposure and catastrophic injuries cases.

Amy has briefed substantive trial court motions and responses throughout her legal career. She has also litigated claims on behalf of victims exposed to toxic substances and the use of defective products and pharmaceuticals. For a period of time, Amy was in practice with her father, Wayne Shahhan, during which time she represented clients in family law, probate, and personal injury matters.

Amy attended Baylor University School of Law, where she earned her Juris Doctor and served on Baylor's Law Review. She earned a Bachelor's degree in English for Baylor University as well. After law school, she completed a one-year judicial clerkship with the Honorable Tom James of Texas's Fifth District Court of Appeals in Dallas.

During her free time, Amy serves as an advocate for autistic children and adults. She also loves to knit, crochet and read whenever she can.

Michael Gorwitz joined the firm's appellate and motions section in 2020. The section handles substantive briefing and appellate matters across the law firm's practice areas in state and federal courts across the country.

Michael's experience working for appellate and trial courts have provided him valuable insight for his work at Fears Nachawati. Michael spent two years as a law clerk for the Minnesota Court of Appeals, and two years prior to that as a senior law clerk for a Minnesota district court. Before law school, he studied English literature, completing all but his dissertation toward a Ph.D. in the subject.

Michael's practice is focused on public client litigation and pharmaceutical and medical device litigation. He works on behalf of government entities in consumer protection and environmental litigation.

Michael also spent some time as a freelance production assistant for Warner Brothers, Fox Searchlight, and other motion picture companies, coordinating the needs of various departments and gaining exposure to this high pressure environment.

He is a freelance contributor of music criticism and sports writing and publisher of the sports and culture blog fieldsofplay.tumblr.com.
